

Plain English GDPR terms & conditions

Here are a few points from our terms of business for easy reading that helps all parties remain compliant with GDPR.

1

Data is provided on a licence to you and always remains the property of BDP, therefore we request that this is used for direct marketing purposes concerning business matters only.

2

Please let BDP know if you would like to share the data with any third parties, so that this is agreed beforehand. It helps us know where the data is at all times for compliance.

3

BDP provide business data under legitimate interests. To ensure that we select the most accurate companies for you to target, please inform us of the products and services that you will be promoting with the licensed data.

4

BDP provide most bespoke custom built databases within 24-48 hours of receiving an order. To find out more information about how we build your specific base, ask your Account Manager today.

5

When sending emails, we request that you only send these through a white listed email provider within the EU. This helps prevent your domain from becoming blocked, ensures you have an unsubscribe link and ensures that you remain compliant.

6

BDP are the only data company to provide a 100% data guarantee and we are very proud of this. The 100% guarantee covers deliverability of mailing or postal addresses and email addresses delivered through a recommended email service provider as outlined above and ensures that after you have completed your campaign, any issues as outlined will be covered by us.

7

To ensure you stay compliant, BDP request that you do not use the data if you no longer have a licence to do so, such as if the licence has been exhausted, cancelled or has expired. To ensure you are covered, you may have a recurring licence, which means the data licence supplied can continue to be supplied until terminated as outlined in our terms.

8

To ensure we stay compliant, BDP monitor all data for unauthorised usage. After a number of years, we have had to implement penalties for such use, they are very significant with the intention to dissuade you from misusing the data.

9

Of course, when a prospect has purchased from you or signed up to your website and therefore becomes a customer, you can create your own record for this customer and you do not need to delete them after the licence has finished.

10

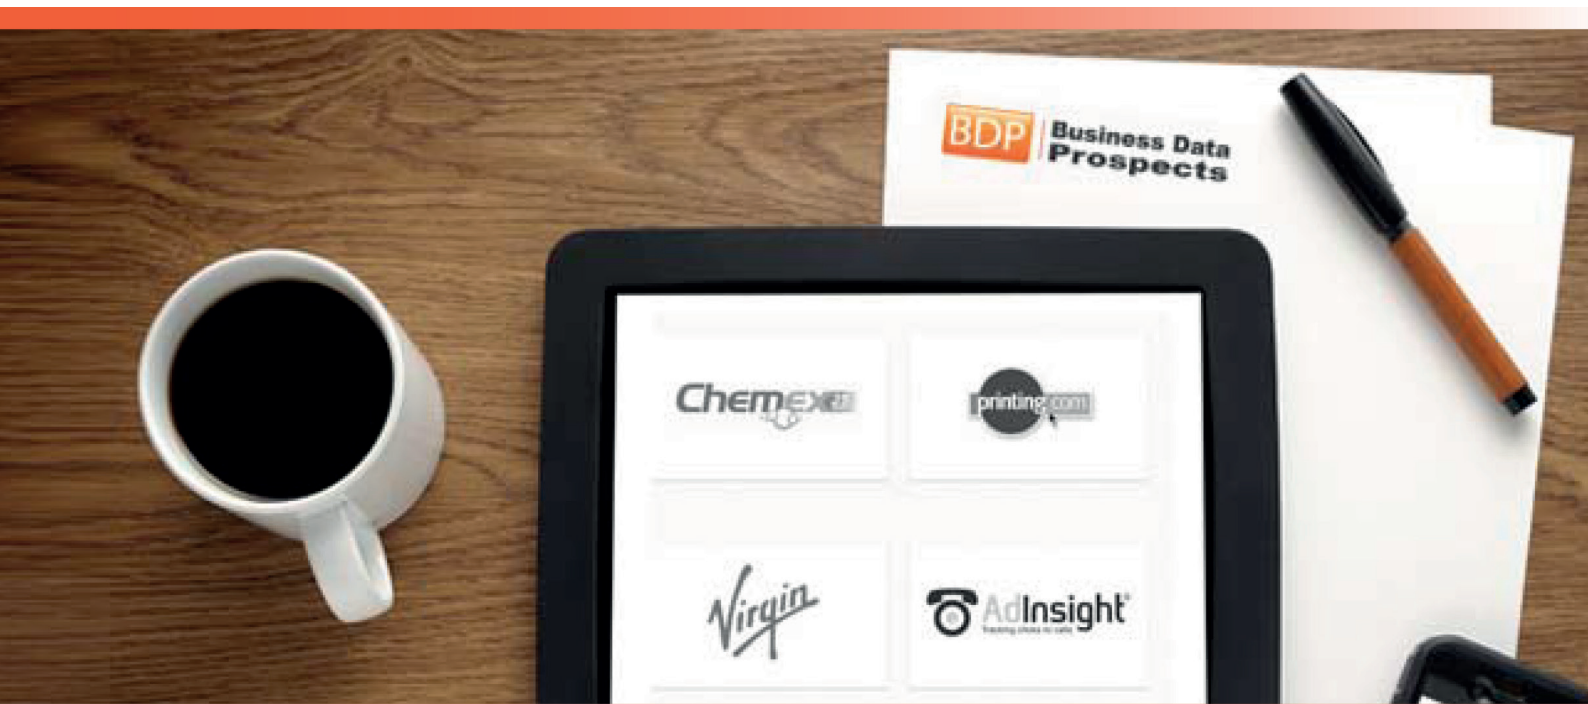

This is intended to give you a brief overview. It does not substitute our full terms of business. Please ensure you familiarise yourself with these terms and conditions too. We look forward to working with you.
